

Community Conversation 2021

S.C. Says Poetry—Evening with Empathy TUESDAY, MAR 16 • 7:00 - 8:30 PM

Join national champion slam poet S.C. Says and the Seattle Waldorf School community for a virtual evening of poetry, creativity, and dialogue. We'll be examining what building a more empathetic community looks like, participating in activities designed to highlight concealed characteristics that we may not realize we have in common. S.C. will also lead participants in generating authentic dialogue around diversity appreciation and creating a more empathetic culture. It's going to be an entertaining and engaging virtual evening that you won't want to miss!

ANDRE BRADFORD, a.k.a. S.C. Says, is an Austin-based slam poet who has been performing slam poetry since 2013. He has performed at venues and universities across the country and his work has been featured in the Huffington Post, The Edge radio, The Culture Trip, and Blavity. He is a two-time Austin Poetry Slam Champion, a three-time Texas Grand Slam Finalist, and was a member of the 2015 National Championship Team. Covering a gamut of topics, his poetry shows raw vulnerability and cultivates transparency and dialogues into many walks of life.

Co-hosted by the Seattle Waldorf High School Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Club
